HISA Induction Video – Information Paper

Purpose

To provide Committee members with access to HISA's new induction video, designed to offer a clear overview of who we are, our role within UHI, and how we support and represent students.

Background

HISA has developed a short video induction to support understanding of the Students' Association's role, remit, and structure. The video provides an accessible introduction to:

- Who HISA are, and where we are located
- Who we represent
- The role of the Student Officers
- Student Voice Representatives (SVRs)
- Clubs and societies
- The Advice Service

As a committee focused on academic quality, enhancement, and research-informed practice, understanding HISA's role in representing the student voice is key. The video outlines:

- How student feedback reaches formal academic governance structures
- How HISA supports representation at programme and institutional level
- How collaboration between staff and student representatives strengthens learning and teaching

Members are invited to view the video in advance of future committee discussions to support shared understanding of HISA's role and contribution within academic governance.
